AKATI Consulting (UK) Limited Announcement

AKATI Consulting Partners with APIIT to offer Security Training!

London, UK – Sunday 11th November 2007: AKATI Consulting, a UK based security consulting company, has entered into a strategic partnership with one of Malaysia's premier private institutions of higher learning for technology, Asia Pacific Institute of Information Technology (APIIT) to offer the best possible security and forensics training.

APIIT was founded in 1993 with a mission to ensure a continuous supply of skilled IT professionals and to raise the development of IT in the region. The institute has established itself as a major regional player, with activities and overseas centres in Karachi and Lahore Pakistan, Colombo Sri Lanka, Panipat India, and Perth Australia.

"APIIT is proud to partner with AKATI Consulting in delivering high-end security and forensics training", APIIT manager for corporate training, Gurpardeep Singh said.

"Our assessment is that AKATI Consultings' training deliveries are of the highest standards, he said adding that all our evaluation and feedback has been extremely positive with participants finding the training excellent and valuable".

AKATI Consulting understands the needs of today's IT professionals and is best positioned to offer world-class training, said AKATI Consultings' CEO, Krishna Rajagopal.

"Our wide range of security-specific classes help a diverse group of customers get the training they deserve, be it for executives, network professionals, system administrators, security administrators, consultants as well as students" he said.

AKATI Consulting provides a complete hands-on computer security curriculum for the creation of secure infrastructures. Each class provides escalating security workshops and hands-on technical techniques to teach how to plan, implement, build and maintain security and compliance to reduce risk.

Krishna said that this is a win-win partnership, which completes both APIIT and AKATI Consultings' portfolio of security offerings, while maintaining the quality by which we have both grown in the market.
